

YOUR WEEKLY HOROSCOPE

18 - 24 July, 2022

ARIES RISING

The start of the week is tough, there's no doubt about it. You could feel quite stressed out, mentally, emotionally and physically. It does all get a lot better, however, and by the end of this week, you'll be back to your usual, shiny self.

Home is where the heart is. This week, focus on your domestic life and make it a place of joy and happiness. Plan a family dinner, or host a party. And when you're done, cuddle up on the couch with your favorite food and enjoy the peace that comes from a happy inner world.

TAURUS RISING

GEMINI RISING

Your ruler, Mercury, starts off on the wrong for this week via an opposition to Pluto. This won't feel too great, and it may bring about some financial problems. However, it does get solved later on this week with good, honest communication.

CANCER RISING

Mercury and the Sun oppose planet Pluto this week, an aspect which is bound to bring about power struggles with others. It's a tug of war, and you have to meet in the middle. Things do get a whole lot better, we promise.

LEO RISING

After a rough start to the week, it's time to welcome the start of your Birthday season! The Sun, your ruler, enters your sign, reflecting a time of confidence, strength and self-expression. You have the world at your feet right now.

VIRGO RISING

It's said that Chiron, the Wounded Healer, rules Virgo. Thus, you could feel his retrograde starting this week, inviting you to heal any deeper issues around your past. This is an ideal time for any kind of therapy, as you could make some serious breakthroughs.

LIBRA RISING

Home and career matters look very stressful early on this week, and you could be feeling as if you're in a pressure cooker. Fortunately, this energy gets replaced with something lighter and brighter, and your social life looks like it's going to be popping off.

SCORPIO RISING

Career looks great from the middle to end of this week onwards. The Sun and Mercury enter this sector, bringing light and recognition your way. It's time to stand out from the crowd and let your personality and leadership skills shine through.

SAGITTARIUS RISING

You'll be happy to know that the initial bad weather is passing, only to be replaced with happy, joyful times, especially when it comes to travel and personal growth. Try to take a trip in these next few weeks, if you can.

CAPRICORN RISING

The Sun and Mercury opposite Pluto in your sign at the start of the week – these alignments are likely to feel quite challenging for you, and bring up some challenges in your relationships. Just be careful that you're not projecting your issues onto others.

AQUARIUS RISING

The Sun and Mercury march into your relationship sector this week, shining a lovely, warm light on your relationships. Communication is likely to improve, and you're much more willing to be open and flexible. Just don't lose yourself in others.

PISCES RISING

The start of this week is so unpleasant that you'll want to hide yourself under some sort of rock. Do that because the Sun is coming out soon, and you should be back to your sparkly self in no time. Work in particular seems to go on the up and up from the end of the week onwards.